AN OVERVIEW

This resource guide was created to help our student body and families become more informed about resources within their community. This guide may be used as a directory offering information to teachers, staff, students, and families of the various health and social services available to individuals within the New York City area.

The guide was designed in efforts to help connect users to community services quickly and easily. The guide also serves as a point-of-reference for information related to hospitals, not-for-profit organizations, and other organizations that service the needs of New Yorkers. It will provide, mission statements of programs, initiatives, and models of care used to empower individuals to seek the assistance they need to address their social-emotional, financial, mental health, among other societal needs.

HOMELESS & TEMPORARILY DISPLACED YOUTH & FAMILIES

TEMPORARILY DISPLACED YOUTH

The New York City Department of Youth and Community Development (DYCD) funds services for Runaway & Homeless Youth that include Drop-in Centers, Crisis Services Programs, Transitional Independent Living programs, and Street Outreach and Referral Services. Runaway & Homeless Youth services are designed to protect runaway and homeless youth and reunite them with their families whenever possible. We also fund specialized programming for runaway and homeless young people who are pregnant and parenting, sexually-exploited, and Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender and Questioning (LGBTQ) youth. We are committed to providing funding for a variety of services in order that all runaway and homeless young people will have access to the resources they need to get off the streets and stabilize their lives. Runaway shelters and programs for teens provide temporary housing, food, and specialized counseling to troubled teens who run away from home. They provide a safe place for teens to face and confront their problems and help families to determine the next steps necessary for dealing with these issues. Below are locations for Runaway centers located in NYC.

DOWN TO EARTH MCGOIRICK PARK FARMERS MARKET

Down to Earth Markets bring together two kinds of vendors: local farmers and area food makers who source locally. By incorporating qualified producers into our markets, we expand upon the traditional farmers market. More local food entrepreneurs find a venue to sell their products directly to shoppers. In turn, shoppers benefit by discovering a greater offering of local foods at the markets. Best yet, regional agriculture thrives, as more businesses source from area farms.
